JUNIOR CLASS IS HOST AT BANQUET

OVER ONE HUNDRED AND TWENTY-FIVE PEOPLE ATTEND BANQUET GIVEN IN THE K. OF P. HALL THURSDAY EVENING IN HONOR OF THE MEMBERS OF THE SENIOR CLASS AND THE FACULTY OF THE GREENCASTLE HIGH SCHOOL.

IS AN ELABORATE AFFAIR

Over one hundred and twenty-five guests were entertained at a banquet in the K. of P. hall Thursday evening, in honor of the senior class and faculty members of the Greencastle high school. The members of the junior class were the hosts. An elaborate banquet was served and the entertainment was considered the most enjoyable social event of the school year.

The hall was beautifully decorated with pennants, the high school colors and sweet peas. The long banquet tables which extended from one end of the hall to the other, were prettily decorated with bouquets of sweet peas and cut flowers. Covers for 130 people were laid and each of the places were occupied. The banquet was served in five courses by the girls of the freshman and sophomore classes. The menu was as follows:

Veal Loaf	Potatoes	Pears
Fruit Salad	Butter Rolls	Wafers
Grape Ice	Cake	Mints
Cocoa

Neat programs, which were used as place cards, were at each plate at the banquet table. The programs bore the name of the guests, gave the menu or the banquet, the toast list, and the names of the various committees of juniors who arranged the entertainment. Small bouquets of violets were enclosed in the programs and were given as favors.

Superintendent H. A. Henderson acted as toastmaster to an excellent advantage and delighted the young people with many stories, characterized by his good humor and oratorical ability. The following toasts were given:

Juniors to Seniors—Miss Helen O'Rear.

Senior Response—Cecil O'Brien.

Juniors to Faculty—Frank Roberts.

Faculty Response—Edward Pitkin.

Seniors to School Board—Miss Clara Sharp.

School Board Response—C. C. Gillen.

Each of the teachers of the high school, Mrs. C. C. Gillen, Mrs. H. A. Henderson and Lloyd Skinner responded with toasts.

After the banquet had been served and the many toasts given, the floor of the spacious hall was cleared and the young people enjoyed a dance which lasted until 12 o'clock. The music for the occasion was furnished by Bridges and Hanneman, with the piano and drums. A short comedy sketch of shadow pictures was given by several members of the junior class in the reception room, after the last course had been served.

The junior-senior entertainment is an annual affair and is considered the largest social event of the school year. This year's entertainment was much more elaborate than any given during the past five years.

BARN FIRE THREATENS WARE HOUSE

BITTLES HANDLE FACTORY STABLES, CONTAINING TEAM OF MULES VALUED AT $300, BURNED EARLY THIS AFTERNOON—BUILDING CONTAINING $15,000 WORTH OF FINISHED PRODUCT, IN DANGER.

HOBOS GIVE THE WARNING

Fire which started in the stables at the rear of the little handle factory at 2 o'clock this afternoon, totally destroyed the barn and for a while threatened to destroy a ware house containing about $15,000 worth of finished products, which ware house was not thirty feet from the barn.

A team of mules, valued at $300, together with some feed, were burned in the barn. Mr. Bittles had no insurance on the barn or contents. He has no idea how the fire started.

Two colored hoboes gave the first warning to employees of the handle factory. The hoboes, walking along the Monon tracks, saw the flames and shouted to the men working in the factory. The men ran out and found the roof of the barn a mass of flames. One immediately ran to the mill office and notified Frank Bittles, who called the fire department by phone.

The department made a fine run to the fire, and although several hundred feet of hose had to be laid, they soon had water on the burning building. They were too late to save the barn or its contents but did keep the ware house from catching fire. Mr. Bittles was greatly pleased at the manner in which the firemen responded.

The loss to the barn and contents will probably amount to $750.

TWO LONG TERM FARM PRISONERS

ITALIAN LADS FROM LOGANS-PORT MUST SERVE 660 DAYS ON STATE'S NEW PENAL INSTITUTION—THURSDAY THE BIGGEST DAY YET, ELEVEN MEN BEING RECEIVED—SHERIFF COFFIN OF MARION COUNTY VISITS FARM.

FIVE COME FROM KOKOMO

Twenty-six prisoners had been registered at the State Farm at Putnamville at 5 o'clock Thursday night. As the farm was opened to receive prisoners on Monday, the average number of prisoners received each day since it was opened is a fraction over five.

Thursday, however was by far the biggest day at the farm as eleven prisoners were received. Three of these came from Indianapolis, five from Kokomo and two from Logansport.

Sheriff J. B. Stanley of Logansport, accompanied by John M. Johnson, a business man of that city, brought two prisoners Thursday afternoon. The prisoners were two young Italians who had been convicted of larceny and had been sentenced to 100 days on the farm and given a fine which will keep them there for a total of 660 days—almost two years.

George V. Coffin, sheriff of Marion county, accompanied by C. O. Dodson, an Indianapolis business man, brought three prisoners from Marion county in an automobile Thursday afternoon. This makes six prisoners from the Indianapolis court already at the farm and Sheriff Coffin Thursday afternoon promised Superintendent Talkington that he would send a lot more.

"Right now I have 300 prisoners in the county jail and 300 in the work house," said the Marion county sheriff. "Many of these men will go to the farm, and as the Marion county workhouse probably will be abolished since the opening of the state farm, you will get all of the workhouse men in the future." As Sheriff Coffin started to leave and bade Mr. Talkington good-by he said: "I expect to see you quite often in the future, so often that you, perhaps, will get awful tired of seeing me."

Immediately the prisoners are received at the farm, they are taken to the office where their commitment papers are made out. They then are taken to the farm buildings where they are given a bath, and supplied with new clothing. Then the farm barber gets busy and the hair is clipped close to the head. All this is done as a sanitary precaution.

Following their equipment with new clothing, the men are given a thorough medical examination by Dr. Jerome King. And after the examination the men are immediately put to work. If possible the men are given the kind of work they are best suited to. Thursday eleven men were driving teams in attending to the farm work. Two men were hauling logs. A gardener and three helpers were making garden. A lot of men were digging ditches; others were engaged in carpenter work on the new buildings, while others were building a huge chimney for the farm kitchen range. Every one was busy and all seemed happy.

Although none of the permanent buildings are yet completed, Superintendent Talkington expects to have the dormitory and the large dining room completed within the next two weeks.

DePAUW AND FRANKLIN CROSS BATS HERE TODAY

The 1915 college baseball season opened here today, when the Franklin college team and DePauw University ball-tossers crossed bats on McKean Field this afternoon. Despite the fact that neither of the teams have practiced any great length of time this spring, the game was expected to be fast and closely contested.

MINER ARRESTED IN ROBBERY CASE

DAVID FOSTER, OF BRAZIL, BROUGHT TO GREENCASLE LATE THURSDAY AFTERNOON BY VANDALIA RAILROAD DETECTIVE LAUDERBACK—SENT TO JAIL ON CHARGE OF JUMPING TRAINS.

SAY HE IS SAFE ROBBER

David Foster, of Brazil, a miner, said by officers who have been investigating the robbery of the Vandalia freight office safe Wednesday night, to be guilty of the robbery, was arrested in Brazil late Thursday afternoon by Brazil officers.

Later he was brought to Greencastle and taken before Mayor Walter Cooper to answer a charge of boarding a moving train in Greencastle. He was convicted of the charge and sentenced to thirteen days in jail. The officers are holding Foster on this charge until other evidence can be secured by the officers.

Vandalia Detective Lauderback and Marshal John Cooper of this town, who have been working on the case, believe that they have a strong case against Foster. They say that in his work in the mines he has learned the methods of using high explosives. According to the officers he has a criminal record.

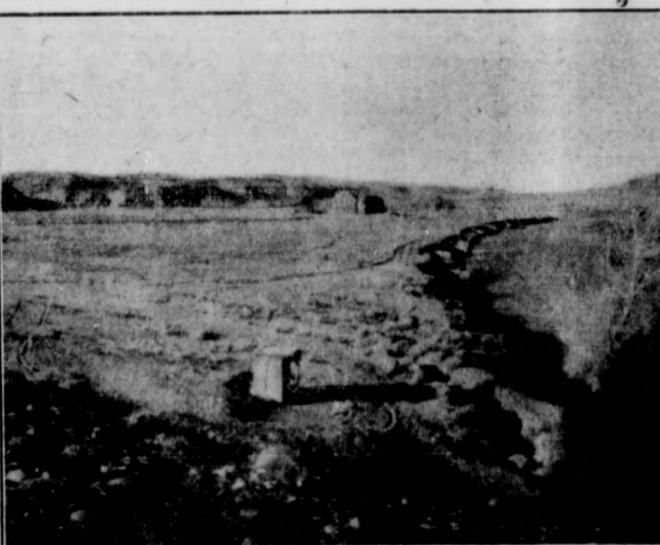

When the description of several men seen around the Vandalia station Wednesday night were given Detective Lauderback, he readily recognized the description of Foster.

Believing that he might have been implicated in the robbery he went to Brazil and got the police officers there to arrest Foster. When the officers went to the house, Foster's wife informed them that he was not at home. The officers entered the home, however, and found the man in bed.

Foster admitted to the officers that he was here Wednesday night but says he left here on a freight train at 11 o'clock. The train, he said, did not stop at Brazil and he was carried on to Terre Haute, from which town he walked back to Brazil. It is known that he reached Brazil about 4 o'clock Thursday morning.

The officers believe they can work up a strong case against Foster. At least he will be held in jail until the officers have sufficient time to investigate.

Obituary.

Again the angel of death has visited this community and this time plucked the form of William Webster, the oldest child of a family of ten children, son of Samuel and Betty A. Webster, of which two brothers and one sister survive: John A. Webster of Cleveland, O., Tilla M. Marshall of Ulysses, Kansas, and Jesse B. Webster of Los Angeles, Cal.

William Webster was born in Parke county, Indiana, Nov. 13, 1845, and departed this life at the age of 69 years, 4 months and 27 days. He was united in marriage to Mary Jane Clodfelter, Dec. 24, 1868. The fruits of this union were seven children: Chas. T., Harvey T., and Oscar A. Webster, Emma E. Leasure, Nellie E. Tucker, all of Russellville; Clara Alice Etcheson of Bainbridge, and Lula E. Webster, who passed to the great beyond Aug. 14, 1882, at the age of 9 years.

His lamp of life burned low only a few short hours and its last feeble flame died out Friday evening at 6:30 o'clock, April 9, 1915, after a brief illness of apoplexy. He had gone to Greencastle to transact some business and shortly after putting his horse in the Hinton Livery barn, became sick and laid down on a cot. He soon revived and sat up on the side of the cot and told some jokes, but when he got up to start home, he was suddenly stricken with apoplexy and became unconscious at once. Messages were sent to the family to come at once. The family were all by his side when he fell asleep, to awake in a better and brighter world.

His life is ended so far as earthly day is concerned, but in the hearts of those who loved him so, he is a living presence making stronger the tie between earth and heaven. "To live in hearts we leave behind, is not to die."

He, with his wife, joined the church of the Brethren at Lagoda under the ministry of Wm. Harshbarger about thirty-five years ago in the fall of 1880. The great esteem and affection with which he has always been regarded by all who knew him, furnishes ample testimony, of the loving Christian life he lived. His Christian faith and belief was put in daily practice by him in his home, and among his friends and neighbors in such a way as to endear him in the hearts and minds of all. Sacred and blessed and forever enduring are the beautiful and comforting memories of this friend, husband and father.

Although he has gone to fill a vacancy in heaven, we realize that he is prepared to do a more blessed work in that bright and happy land. He is survived by a faithful wife, six loving children, fifteen grandchildren, two brothers, one sister, and a host of relatives and friends to mourn his loss, to which we extend our heartfelt sympathy.

His love and devotion for his family was full to the overflowing and was broad and deep enough, not only to embrace them, but also to extend to his neighbors and friends as well. Next to the joy that flows from God's throne is the light of a beautiful life.

He has wandered into an unknown land, And left us dreaming how very fair It needs must be sine he lingers there."

The funeral services were held at the residence at Russellville and conducted by E. N. Goshorn of Ladoga, Ind. William Harshbarger also gave a short talk on the life of the deceased. Interment was at the Hebron cemetery.

Obituary.

Urban C. Brewer was born in Monrovia Ind., June 27, 1837, and departed this life at his home near Hall, Ind., March 12, 1915. He was the son of John C. and Mary E. Brewer, and the oldest of ten children, four sisters and one brother surviving him. His boyhood was spent on a farm near the vicinity of his birthplace. He was educated in Belleville Academy and Northwestern Christian University, (now Butler College), and was a graduate in law from the University of the City of New York. When fourteen years old he became a member of the Christian church. He commenced preaching at the age of sixteen and throughout his ministry his labors were crowned with success. He held ministries at New York City; at Central church, Indianapolis, and Greensburg, Ind. His last regular ministry was at Danville, Ind. In the winter of 1913-14 he served at Welaka, Fla. With this exception he preached for churches in Morgan and adjoining counties in Indiana since removing to his farm fourteen years ago. October 11, 1866, he was married to Emma H. Hall of Lyndon, Vt. To this happy union were born three daughters and four sons, six of whom survive, Evangeline having died several years ago. The wife and mother was called home in 1896. August 31, 1898, Bro. Brewer was married to Cora Edith Hurst. To this union has been one daughter, who died in infancy. Living children are: Albert D., John C. and Urban C., of Indianapolis; Mary A. and Hall A., of Hall, Ind., and Ruth E., of New York City. For forty years he was director of Butler College. In Danville he served four years as county auditor.

The funeral services were held on March 14—one in Hall, conducted by William Harvey Brown, and the writer; the other at Danville, conducted by W. E. Anderson and Prof. Jabez Hall of Butler college. Interment was in the family lot in South Cemetery, Danville.

Bro. Brewer kept well posted on current events, but over and above these things the Bible was his constant companion. The Scriptures were to him as the oracles of God. A great man, a pioneer preacher, a student, a scholar, a man of marked culture and refinement, a Christian, a prince of God has been called home. His simplicity and generosity of character and nobility of nature and his true Christian spirit won him a large circle of friends. He loved his family with all true love. His influence remains. —Rev. J. W. Tudor.

TEN WEEKS IN BED EMINENT PHYSICIANS FAILED—WONDERFUL RECOVERY.

I wish to inform you of the great benefit I have derived from the use of Swamp-Root. I had been a sufferer for more than twenty years from kidney and liver trouble and was almost constantly treated by the most eminent physicians who could only give me temporary relief. I had been in bed for ten weeks when I began the use of Swamp-Root. Inside of twenty-four hours I could see that I had been greatly benefited. I continued to use Swamp-Root until I had used several bottles when I really felt that my old trouble was completely cured and I am positive that any person suffering with kidney or liver trouble can be cured by the use of this preparation.

I am now in the best of health, better than I have been for ten years or more. I do not know how to express myself as strongly as I desire, in favor of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, as I am sure that it saved my life and that my good health is due entirely to this great remedy. I heartily recommend it to every sufferer and am confident they can be benefited as I have been. It is a pleasure for me, gentlemen, to hand you this recommendation. MRS. H. J. PRICE, 1406 Cent St., Portsmouth, Ohio. Personally appeared before me this 13th of September, 1909, Mrs. H. J. Price, who subscribed the above statement and made oath that the same is true in substance and in fact. R. A. CALVERT, Notary Public.

Cause of Sleeplessness.

Sleeplessness often results from a disordered stomach. Correct that and you can sleep as well as ever. Mrs. Mae Ingersoll, Pulaski, N. Y., was troubled with indigestion and headache. "I was so restless at night," she says, "that I could not sleep. Chamberlain's Tablets were so highly recommended that I got a bottle of them and soon after I began taking them I was very much improved. Two bottles of them cured me." Obtainable everywhere.—adv.

Children's School Luncheons

"If you could see the luncheons the children bring to school," said one teacher, "you would not wonder that they find the course of study too much for them."

Yet her work has not been among the so-called "poor," but in a locality where there are comparatively few in abject poverty.

Many schools now provide broth and other foods for the children, but these are still the exceptions even in the cities, and in very few cases has this urgently needed reform reached the country. Where the school makes no such provision the children's lunches should receive even more attention than the meals for the rest of the family, for it is more important that the children should be well fed than that grown people should be. A person who has attained his full growth of body and brain can endure some privation without serious results, but a child can not be deprived of proper nourishment without a lifelong injury resulting.

Wherever circumstances permit the children should go home for their midday meal. It has been noted that girls eating their luncheons at home were, as a rule, brighter and healthier than when they dined at school, even when the school had a lunch room.

In preparing a luncheon at home for the child to take with him it must be remembered that because it is wholesome it need not be so plain that the youngster, on comparing it with his neighbor's, feels a tinge of disappointment. Young children eat largely with their eyes. Give a child an animal-shaped cookie or a square of sponge cake decorated with pink and yellow frosting, and let it repose in the lunch basket beside a rosy cheeked apple, some meat sandwiches cut in fancy shapes and a custard baked in a gorgeously decorated cup. Then hide a "surprise" in the bottom of the basket. A few large raisins, a fine fig, a piece of maple sugar or a date stuffed with cream cheese, will make popular "surprises," or the cake may take the form of the "surprise." The idea is to whet the appetite for the luncheon by letting the child know beforehand that there is something in it which he has not seen and which is more interesting than sandwiches.

In providing fruit care should be taken that it is neither overripe nor underripe. Mothers sometimes remark that they never let the children have candy, but give them all the fruit they wish. Now, a little pure candy is infinitely better for them than underripe or overripe fruit, which may make them actually ill, and the same may be true of fruit that has passed through several hands or come from an unknown source unless sterilized. Cases of diphtheria have been traced to the eating of apples stored in a slightly damp place where an imperceptible coating of mould had gathered over them. When possible the skin and rinds of fruit given to children, unless it has come straight from an orchard, should be sterilized or very thoroughly washed. It will not affect the interior of most fruits to dip them quickly into boiling water and lift them out immediately.

The minced meats that are put into the children's sandwiches should be made from fresh meat and not taken from tins. No wise mother will let a delicate child run the slightest chance of dangers from this source.

Next in importance to the wholesomeness of the food is the variety of the menus. Though a robust child is easy to suit, he is much like the rest of the world, and he will not eat half the lunch provided for him if he has grown tired of the particular kind of food that it contains, and thus he will not get half the nourishment that he should have. A constant change of diet is particularly necessary in the case of delicate children who have not much appetite.

Although a child should not be pampered as to his likes and dislikes, it is a good plan if he manifests a special fondness for a particular dish to serve it often, for he will be sure to eat it, while if foods that he dislikes are constantly given to him, because they are considered wholesome, he will refuse to eat them, and consequently lose just that much nourishment.

A large luncheon should not be provided, a small one being more easily digested when one must do school work so soon after eating. If the child has a ravenous appetite, as most children do have, give him something to eat at once upon returning from school.

Aluminum utensils for the kitchen are becoming daily more popular on account of their light weight and cleanliness. They must never be washed with soda, soap and water being all that is required, with a little powdered whiting for polishing.

If, before putting the loaf of graham bread into the oven, you dip a spoon in water and pat the top of the bread with it, the bread will not have a hard and ragged crust.

At the altar: "I, thee, with all my worldly goods endow." Two years later: "More money? Where's the dollar I gave you last week?"

Candles, like soap, will last longer if allowed to ripen. It is well to keep a supply for six months or a year ahead if one would practice a true economy.

If a woman declines to tell her age give her time; time will tell.

SPECIAL NOTICE TO TAXPAYERS

Many will question the amount of their taxes and ask concerning their personal property assessments and land appraisement. Mistakes will occur where the assessment of property and the extending and collecting of taxes are done by as many different officers.

The Treasurer and Auditor will cheerfully correct all mistakes for which they are responsible and the county assessor will explain the assessment of personal property and where possible adjust if in error.

Taxes are due Jan. 1 and payable at this office in full, or, at the option of the taxpayer, one-half including road taxes, on or before the first Monday in May, 1915, (being the third day) and the remaining one-half on or before the first Monday in November, 1915. Road tax receipts will not be accepted for credit except through the township trustee.

If the first installment of taxes is not paid within the limit set by law the taxes for the entire year become due and delinquent and with penalty is extended by the Auditor and charged to the Treasurer. The state is interested in this extension and the Auditor and Treasurer are both personally liable for any penalties that might be refunded.

Under no circumstances can the Treasurer after the duplicate. He can make no reduction in taxes and he can not refund money once paid in. Errors must be corrected through the Auditor's office.

As the Treasurer can not know the location of each person's property, taxpayers should designate the property on which they wish to pay, and see that all property is included in their receipt. If they have land in more than one township or corporation, or desire to pay taxes on lands or lots not in their name, call the Treasurer's attention to the matter, carefully examine receipts, see if they describe all property (personal and real), and are otherwise correct before leaving the office, and if any errors are evident, have them corrected at once.

The Tax Duplicate is not a transfer book and when, for any year, the Tax Duplicate is made with reference to the property on the first day of March of said year, the duplicate remains for ever unchanged as to showing of property and in whose names changes on the transfer books or prompt recording of deeds to the contrary notwithstanding.

Property will appear in same name for the payment of the second installment. Assignees, Guardians, Administrators and others who pay taxes on property in trust, and persons whose taxes are complicated, such as undivided estates, etc., are earnestly requested to settle such taxes before the last few days, as it requires considerable time to make divisions and separate receipts. Thus avoid mistakes which might happen during the rush of the last few days of taxpaying.

"All property, both Real and Personal, shall be liable for the payment of all taxes, penalties, interest and cost charged to the owner thereof in such county, and no partial payment of any such taxes, penalties, interest or costs, shall discharge or release any part or portion of such property until the whole is paid, which lien shall in no wise be effected or destroyed by any sale or transfer of any such personal property, and shall attach on the first day of April, annually for the taxes of such year." From Section 173, Acts 1891.

All Ditch Taxes and Street Improvements must be called for separately.

Opportunity

Only Comes Once in a Lifetime

SOMETIME in your life you intend to see this country

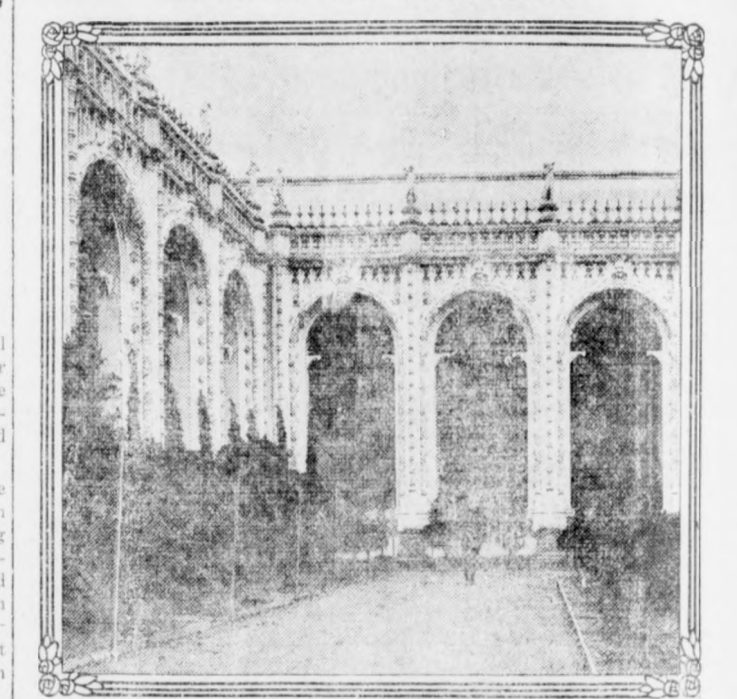

While you live you will NEVER AGAIN HAVE AS GOOD A REASON FOR CROSSING THE CONTINENT of which you are part owner, and which men of wealth the world over and EVEN ROYALTY themselves encircle the globe to see—the country which YOU YOURSELF HAVE HELPED TO BUILD.

THIS IS THE TIME to make a sacrifice, to give to yourself that education which World's Fairs and Travel alone can give.

PLAN NOW, this very day, to see and study this wonderful continent—this AMERICA, OUR AMERICA, of which you are so proud.

This is your opportunity—SEIZE IT—HUSTLE for a few weeks, and thank yourself for the rest of your days.

The taxpayer often has personal property and poll assessed to him separately from his real estate especially when the land is in joint title and accordingly must have a receipt therefor.

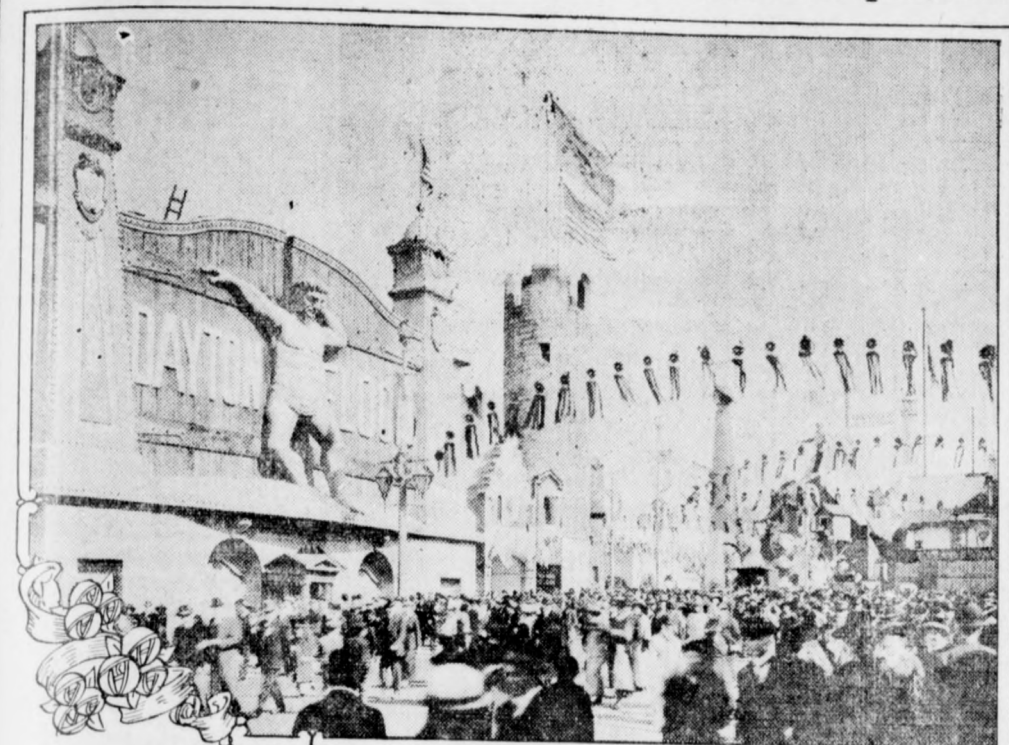

Delinquent taxes must be paid before the current tax.

The Treasurer will not be responsible for penalties and charges on delinquent taxes, resulting from omission of the person paying such tax to state definitely on what property, in whose name and in what township or corporation it was assessed.

Very respectfully,
H. H. RUNYAN,
Treasurer Putnam County.

Ahead of Time

"I am speechless," declared the girl who likes to talk. "Therefore I have ever so much that I must say. But, honestly, you can't convince me that there is not some evil-minded sprite that delights in getting people into pickles like mine!"

"I thought I was so smart and felt so superior to every other girl at the summer resort where I was last August. 'What are you making?' they would ask, as they dashed by with tennis rackets or canoe paddles as I sat slaving. 'Christmas present,' I would say. Then I would be rewarded by a cry of envy and despair and a fervent resolve to go and do likewise immediately."

"I was known all through the hotel as the brilliant person who had sixteen Christmas presents finished and I was regarded with awe and jealousy. Whenever I wanted to go somewhere and enjoy myself I would have to stay on the porch and work in order to keep up my reputation. Many a day I toiled when everyone else was away having a good time. I consoled myself by thinking about the early winter when all other foolish women would be tearing around in the Christmas shopping mobs getting nervous prostration and I should be serene and able to enjoy myself."

"When I packed up to come back to Chicago I had everything done—except the finishing up pars. There were the file lace pincushion covers that I had done for six persons. I copied a perfectly beautiful one that had been given to a guest at the hotel. My thread was a little coarser than the thread in hers, and that made the cushion covers a trifle larger, but I didn't mind that until I went to buy the cushions themselves."

"No," said the saleswoman to whom I applied. "Your cover is a seven-inch and our cushions come only in eight-inch and six-inch sizes!"

"I wasted all afternoon going to every shop in town, and I found millions of pincushions of every size except seven inches. All the manufacturers evidently had got together early in the season and said: 'Now, here's an industrious girl crocheting seven-inch cushions! Good joke, eh?'"

"Several saleswomen pointed out to me that they had seven-inch cushions if the made-up ones, price $10.50. I could remove the covers that always were on them and substitute my crocheted covers if I chose. This did not appeal to my idea of an economical Christmas."

"At present I have six crocheted filet covers on hand, with no place to put them. I think I shall tie ribbons on the ends and send them to people to use as bibs."

"Then there's the gol' bag I made for my brother. He's always howling about having nothing at his club to put balls in and odds and ends in his lockers. So when I was out there in the early summer I measured the door of his locker. I made him a stunning linen thing on the shoebag order that just fitted the inside of the door. I did his initials and scalloped the thing and spent hours and hours—and just now I found in his waste paper basket a notice from the club that owing to lack of space they were going to do over the locker room and make the lockers smaller. I might as well use the embroidered linen bag for a dust cloth. And he makes the seventh person that I've got to get something for."

"I made mother a dresser set. Before I left home I measured her dresser very carefully, because it has jiggers on top of it and an ordinary cloth won't fit. I'd hate to tell you the number of hours I spent on that cover. It would cost twenty dollars if I was to buy it outright. Well, mother had a birthday last week, and father very kindly gave her a new dresser without any jiggers on top of it, and now she can't use that cover I have made any more than she could if she lived in a cave and wasn't bothered with furniture."

"Then I wept tears of rage when the new dresser came home and mother thought it was because I was jealous and wanted a new dresser myself."

"Then I did a lot of candle and lamp shades out of the paper rope that you varnish to make it look like wickwork. When I got home I took a day off and varnished 'em all and repaired some of the places where they had come unglued—and the next day when I went into the guest room where I had left them safely to dry and harden I found them all glued down tight to the Oriental window seat cover. I hadn't put anything under them."

"Yes, I got them off by yanking them apart, but the Oriental cover never will look the same. There are just as many holes in it as there were shades set down to dry."

"I think," concluded the girl who likes to talk, "that there's no such thing as a sane Christmas! I've got to join all the other lunatics in the grand rush. I'm going to buy everybody handkerchiefs that they most likely lose and neckties that they'll hate with unspeakable ferocity!"

"What the average woman thinks she would do if she had plenty of money is nothing in comparison to what she does do because she hasn't got plenty of money."

"Our idea of a snob is a man on a ladder who kisses the feet of the man on the round above him, and kicks at the man on the round below him."

"Many a man fails to get rich because he thinks it's up to him to run the country instead of run his own affairs."

The Stories of Famous Novels

THE VICAR OF WAKEFIELD

By Oliver Goldsmith

Dr. Primrose was a gentle, unworldly old clergyman with a somewhat silly wife and six children. He thought all the rest of mankind was as good and as trustworthy as himself. He was destined to know better—or worse.

A merchant to whom the clergyman had entrusted the management of his fortune absconded, leaving the Primroses on the verge of poverty and forced to give up their big house.

They moved far into the country and rented a cottage from Squire Thornhill, a local celebrity. Squire Thornhill had almost no money in his own right, but was dependent on his uncle, Sir William Thornhill, an eccentric philanthropist, who let the young man handle the estates and have all the cash he wanted. The Squire was utterly unworthy of such trust, though neither his uncle nor the Primroses suspected it.

Squire Thornhill made much of his new tenants, flattering Dr. Primrose and doing a thousand little favors for the whole family. Thus it came as a shock, as well as a heart-breaking grief to them all when the Squire eloped with Olivia, the eldest of the Primrose daughters.

An odd old fellow named Barchell, who had thrust his friendship on the family and had shown marked attention to the second daughter, Sophia, did what he could for the stricken father in his hour of need. And at last Dr. Primrose found poor Olivia—deserted, ill, ashamed to meet her dear ones. Freely her father forgave her and brought her home again, where he and all those around him sought to make her forget her shame. But she could not bear to remain among people who knew her secret. And once more she went away.

Misfortunes now came thick and fast. The Primroses' rented cottage burned to the ground, destroying the father's books and furniture and all his savings. Then Thornhill, whom Dr. Primrose sought to punish for his treatment of Olivia, had the clergyman arrested for debt and thrown into prison.

There Dr. Primrose heard that Olivia was dead. His family were destitute and homeless. And, as though to cap the climax of ill luck, Thornhill kidnapped Sophia.

But Dr. Primrose's cup of sorrow was not yet full. While he was in prison his eldest son, George, a young army officer, was brought thither, wounded and in fetters. George had heard of Olivia's fate, had hurried from his distant regimental quarters and had challenged Thornhill to mortal combat.

The Solution

Everything in the Carricks' apartment was beautifully clean, for young Mrs. Carrick was a careful housekeeper and she found her greatest pride and pleasure in her sparkling glass, spotless curtains and sparkling floors. Tom Carrick submitted to his wife's rules of order with smiling good nature, and when a pair of slippers on the top of his chair, or the scattered pages of a newspaper on the parlor floor, proved him a transgressor, he received her gentle rebukes with a comical display of penitence that quite disarmed her.

It was with genuine joy Mrs. Carrick prepared a room for her father when the breaking up of his old home made it necessary for him to come to live with her. She lay awake at night planning little comforts for him, but the labor she put into the arrangement of these conveniences was as nothing compared with her efforts to make him use and enjoy them.

"Father, why don't you hang your coat on one of your hangers?" she asked one day, when she found his Sunday coat suspended by the collar from a hook. "I had these hangers put in your closet so that you could keep your clothes nice."

"That was real thoughtful of you, but you know, Maggie, I never was much of a hand for fussing about my clothes."

"Don't you like that shaving stand, father? I notice you never use it."

"Yes, it's a real clever contrivance, but I've always been used to hooking my little hand glass on the window sill and hacking away." He laughed as he displayed a small cut in his cheek, and then sighed. "Your mother said long ago that I ought to go to a barber to be shaved, but I'm no hand for innovations, Maggie."

Matters became worse rather than better, and it required all Mrs. Carrick's loving patience not to be cross when she found neckties and collars scattered about the dressing case, instead of being laid away in the holders she had made for them, or the shoe blacking brush on the top of the washstand instead of in the proper place beneath. There came a time when she could no longer suffer her father's untidiness in silence, and she went to her husband almost tearfully.

"I don't know what to say to father," she said. "He keeps everything in his room in a dreadful mess, but I can stand that, for I go in often and put things right, but I don't know what to do about the rug."

"The rug?" repeated Carrick.

"Yes, you know, Tom, he has a connat. Thornhill's servants had beaten him and the Squire had caused his arrest for the serious crime of issuing a duel challenge.

And now, after the manner of the story of Job, the luck took a sudden shift. Barchell proved to be Sir William Thornhill. He rescued Sophia as the Squire's men were carrying her off, and he married her. His eyes opened to his nephew's infamy, he released Dr. Primrose and George from prison.

The news of Olivia's death was false. She was restored to her father's arms. A servant of the Squire's came forward with proof that her marriage to Thornhill had been genuine and not a mere mock wedding, as the Squire had planned. Thornhill, through fear of his uncle, consented to recognize Olivia as his lawful wife, and Sir William, disinheriting his nephew, settled a third of his own wealth upon Olivia.

George had been engaged to Miss Wilmont, an heiress. The Squire had made her believe George was fatherless and by a trick had won her consent to become his own wife. Learning the truth, she at once married George.

As a crowning touch to Dr. Primrose's happiness, the merchant who had absconded with the family's funds was caught. And the bulk of the Primrose fortune was restored.

OLIVER GOLDSMITH was one of the brilliant men of letters of the 18th century. He was born in 1728 and entered Trinity College, Dublin, in 1745; and later proceeded to Edinburgh and Leyden Universities to study medicine. He was, however, unable to overcome an insatiable passion for gambling, which, in the end, utterly impoverished him. He then set out upon a tour of Europe, supplied with no other means than those offered by his good spirits, his kindly nature, and a favorite flute, on which he was an adept player.

Goldsmith finally took his degree in medicine at Padua, but on returning to England was unsuccessful in the practice of his profession.

He then entered the field of letters, and after passing a period of obscurity and privation finally gained his place in the front rank of English authors.

THE VICAR OF WAKEFIELD is a work that has been the delight of five generations, and will probably perish only with the language.

Goldsmith had a large heart, a generous hand, and an indolent disposition. All his earnings were quickly squandered, and he died in 1774, $10,000 in debt.

claimant for the rheumatism in his ankles, and he rubs it on so carefully that that nice big rug in his room is getting simply covered with grease spots. I just don't know what to do about it."

"Well, Margaret, I'll tell you what we'll do. Carrick assumed the air of a conspirator and lowered his voice to a whisper. "We won't even breathe a word about it to him, and we'll stand the rug as long as we can, and when we can't endure the grease spots any longer we'll buy him a new rug."

Margaret's voice was a little unsteady.

"Tom," she said, "you make me ashamed."

FRECKLES

Don't Hide Them With a Veil; Remove Them With the Othine Prescription.

This prescription for the removal of freckles was written by a prominent physician and is usually so successful in removing freckles and giving a clear, beautiful complexion that it is sold by druggists under guarantee to refund the money if it fails.

Don't hide your freckles under a veil that gets an ounce of othine and remove them. Even the first few applications should show a wonderful improvement, some of the lighter freckles vanishing entirely.

Be sure to ask the druggist for the double strength othine; it is this that is sold on the money-back guarantee.

About Rheumatism.

Fully nine out of every ten cases of rheumatism are simply muscular rheumatism due to cold or damp, or chronic rheumatism, which attacks the larger joints, knees, hips and shoulders. Neither of these varieties require any internal treatment. All you need is a free application of Chamberlain's Liniment with vigorous massage. Try it and see how quickly it gives relief. Obtainable everywhere. —adv.

Can Uncle Sam Preserve Neutrality?

Our foreign relations have been strained almost to the breaking point. The United States has been led down to the very brink of war. The cartoons of the country have interpreted the spirit of the times, and are recording with their pens this sinister chapter in the nation's history.

CARTOONS MAGAZINE

(Published by H. K. Webster, Publisher of Popular Magazine)
Presents every month the cream of caricature both in America and Europe. It is a veritable panorama of the war. What the nations think of each other is told by the cartoon which goes under the surface and exposes the very thoughts of the people. Cartoons Magazine is the most fascinating continued story of the world's events. The pictorial pages are supplemented by well-selected editorial comments and special articles. Invaluable to the library, the business man, the student of current events.

She knows the meaning of the designs on pottery and blanket, as if a member of the tribe. Those who will have the pleasure of hearing Miss Osborne at either lecture will be given a treat.

Tomorrow should be Big Day for the Candidates

Saturday should be a big day for the candidates in the Herald's Panama-Pacific Tour Contest. Saturday always is a good day to see folks and tomorrow should be no exception. Hundreds of votes should be gathered in—many of them derived from new subscriptions for the Daily Herald. These latter will be counted on the week's increase of votes derived from new daily subscriptions, the candidates securing the greatest increase to be given a bonus of 100 votes.

These fine days should be very productive for the candidates. The weather will permit them to be out and hustling all day long and that's what it takes to secure votes. Just a little hustling and the votes come.

The bonus of 100 votes will be awarded on Tuesday morning. There is no change in the standing today. It is as follows:

Adele Wilson, Roachdale, Indiana, R.R. No. 4.....	1096

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Donner are entertaining at dinner this evening.

Frank Bridges, Art Williams, Charley Conklin and Capt. Wilbur Starr were initiated as members of the local camp of the United Spanish War Veterans at the regular meeting of the camp held in the Woodmen's hall Thursday night.

The body of Mrs. Anna G. Todd, daughter of the late William Goodall, whose death occurred at her home in Minneapolis Wednesday, arrived here this afternoon on the Monon train due here at 2:40 o'clock, and was taken to the Forest Hill cemetery for burial. The body was taken direct to the cemetery and short services, conducted by Rev. B. D. Beck, were held. The pall-bearers were Mayor Cooper, Matt J. Murphy, C. C. Gillen, and W. M. Sutherland. Mrs. Todd was a sister of B. H. Smith of this city.

Carl Hamrick, who came to Greencastle from Fontanet a few months ago, was before Mayor Walter Cooper this morning on a charge of intoxication, sworn out by his father-in-law, William Jemison. Hamrick pleaded guilty to the charge and was fined $1 and costs. Mayor Cooper then suspended the sentence and allowed the young man his liberty. Should his conduct be good in the future the sentence will be enforced. Hamrick and his father-in-law had some trouble at the home of the latter Thursday night, following the young man's return from Fontanet.

The boys of the high school will hold an inter-class track meet on McKean Field Saturday morning. Each class has a number of promising athletes and about twenty-five entrants are expected in the meet. A track team picked from the winners in the inter-class meet will go to the north part of the county April 24 to compete with the Roachdale high school track team. No admission will be charged to the meet Saturday and the public is invited to attend.

MRS. ZACHAROKAS HOSTESS AT A PRETTY SHOWER FOR FORMER DEPAUW STUDENT

Mrs. Louis Zacharokas delightfully entertained from 3 to 6 o'clock this afternoon at her home at the corner of Locust and Walnut streets, with a china shower in honor of Miss Alice Trout of Shelbyville, who is to be the bride of Fred Lucas of Chicago next month. Seventy guests were present.

The home was prettily decorated throughout with pink carnations and sweet peas. The pink and lavender color scheme was used. Other cut flowers and potted plants arranged artistically through the reception and dining rooms added much beauty to the home. Pink and lavender are the colors of the Phi Psi fraternity, of which Mr. Lucas is a member.

The entire active membership of the Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority, of which Miss Trout is a member, were present for the occasion. The out-of-town people who were here for the shower were: Mrs. Kate Hennessey of Chicago, Miss Virginia Fuller and Mrs. Hilligoss of Shelbyville and Miss Jean Griffith of Columbus, Ind.

Many beautiful presents of china-ware were received by Miss Trout. Refreshments of chicken salad, creamed peas in patty, potato chips, pimento cheese and wafers, fruit salad, Dixie biscuits and jelly, salted almonds, ice cream, cake and coffee. A lavender wedding bell was inserted in the center of the pink brick ice cream. Corsage bouquets of sweet peas tied with pink and lavender ribbons were given as favors.

The wedding of Miss Trout and Mr. Lucas will be solemnized at the home of the bride's parents in Shelbyville May 11. Both Miss Trout and Mr. Lucas are graduates of the university and are well known here. The former was a member of the faculty of the Asbury Conservatory of Music of this city for several years.

Sunday Observance Meeting.

An enthusiastic Sabbath Observance meeting was held Thursday afternoon in the Locust Street Church. Mrs. M. S. Heavenridge presided, giving a brief talk and calling on several for prayer. Rev. Hootman, before giving his talk on the subject of Sabbath Observance, spoke of some local matters that have to do with the betterment of our city; gambling, immoral shows and blind tigers were mentioned as being a menace to the manhood of Greencastle. I think that Brother Tillotson well said that we are not worshipping the Sabbath of the decalogue, remarked Rev. Hootman, and gave a number of notable instances from the New Testament concerning the first day of the week, chief among which was the rising of Christ from the dead on that day. The setting up of the New Testament church was on the first day of the week, Paul preached on the first day of the week, etc. In Revelation John says, I was in the spirit on the Lord's day. We should all be in the spirit on the Lord's day, for a number of reasons. First, for communion with God. We will be drawn nearer to him; we will be more like him and be able to enjoy the blessings which he has for us. We should be in the spirit of fellowship, in the power of the spirit which passes knowledge. Let us pray in the spirit. He entered into the spirit of giving, of doing for others. Paul was in the spirit that he might be able to hear God speak to him, that he might be able to hear the message. When we put light into a room we drive the darkness out. We want the world, we want the church to come up into the light of Christ. When we get to living in the spirit of God every day, we will have a better world. In the early days of the church, when the disciples went everywhere preaching the word, they were full of the Word. Mr. Moody, before he became a preacher, used to travel about selling shoes; when doing this, after he got through talking about shoes he would ask, How much time have I before my train? Perhaps he would have as much as an hour and a half. He would proceed to question his customer about the condition of his soul. Thus he lived in the spirit every day of the week. During a storm at sea, Mr. Moody prayed with the company on shipboard; after praying for protection, a great peace came to him and he went to sleep; when he awoke, a large ship was towing the vessel he was in to a place of safety. John had that spirit—he had it more fully. God wants us to have that fullness, that sweetness and if we have it on the Lord's day, we will have it on every other day. A little boy who was to be operated on prayed the little prayer that John Adams said he had prayed for eighty-six years. Now I lay me down to sleep, etc. The little fellow never did wake up on this earth, he waked up in heaven. These incidents, Rev. Hootman used to emphasize the value of a life filled with the spirit every day in the week, a closer communion with God.

LANDSCAPE GARDNER TO LECTURE THIS EVENING

Persons interested in the beautification of the city are urged to attend a meeting in the assembly room of the court house this evening at 7:30 o'clock. Miss Grace Osborne, a landscape gardener of Indianapolis, will deliver a lecture and explain the methods used in making many forms of civic improvements. The lecturer has been brought here by the Boosters' Club and no admission is to be charged at the meeting.

Miss Osborne is an expert landscape gardener and is considered an authority on all civic improvement work. She has had both practical and technical experience. She was reared on a farm and after receiving her education at Cornell University, she has been engaged in landscape gardening in Indianapolis. Persons interested in the beautification of the city should not fail to attend the meeting.

GET READY FELLERS. THE KITE CONTEST SATURDAY.

Providing that weather conditions are favorable, that is, if a brisk wind is blowing and the weather man passes up the rain, "Young America" will fly kites on Sunset Hill Saturday afternoon in the contest promoted by the local school officials. The contest was postponed one week on account of unfavorable weather conditions and the boys are anxious to let out their kite strings.

Prizes for the best kites are to be offered and good hard money which will jingle in the boys' pockets, will be presented to the winners. The judges will be Judge Hughes, Mayor Cooper, Andrew Durham and Prof. W. M. Blanchard.

PRAYER SERVICES AT PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

The congregation of the Presbyterian church had an unusual service last evening. Quite a large number of the members met for the mid-week service. The service was held in the church proper. The pulpit was decorated with ferns, sweet peas and roses. The pastor spoke to the point on the "Joy of Worship," and pointed out how people can find joy in church service. The climax of the thought centered in the care of the church. After the service, the doors of the consistory were thrown open and the congregation were delighted with the beautiful transformation. Through the generosity of two members of the church this room has been made one of the most beautiful rooms in this section of the state for public service. Beautiful hardwood floors have been laid on which are rugs. The simple decorations of the walls are in brown and tan and is very pleasing. This was done at a cost of several hundred dollars. An informal social followed at which light refreshments were served. Miss Hathaway rendered a fine selection on the organ. A piano solo by Lawrence Stout delighted the gathering, while Miss Williams, in her "Springtime Song," captivated all. The evening's social was a complete surprise to many but all went home feeling that it was one of the most joyful events of the church year.

A finding for the plaintiff has been made by Judge James P. Hughes in the case of Archibald Allen against Frank Fulton, in which case Allen asked for a quiet title to land in the north part of the county. C. C. Gillen was the attorney for Mr. Allen.

Osteopathy Not Massage.

Osteopathy is no more like massage than surgery is like barbering. Rid yourself of such an idea. The only similarity is that both are given with the hands. There is no slapping, pulling and rubbing, hence the treatment is not given on the nude body as in massage, but through a light garment, such as a kimono or wrapper and underclothing.

To confound osteopathy with massage speaks poorly of your knowledge concerning it. Modern surgery and barbering are both done with the hands but you know how dissimilar. The competent osteopath is a skilled anatomist, a surgeon without the knife for he effects cures by scientific adjustments of subluxations of body structures, hence to call osteopathy "rubbing" or massage is gross carelessness of speech.

Every good thing has its counterfeit. Beware of imitators who are without license, and whose crude work is fraught with danger. To have been Chiropracticized, electrized or massaged does not tell you what osteopathy will do for you.

No better gift can be bestowed upon suffering humanity than to improve personal appearance, bring comfort, add health and prolong life by osteopathic methods. That the Spaulhurst Osteopaths have worked diligently to this end is evidenced by kindly expressions of those who have given their treatment a fair trial. Over Lyric Theater, Lady attendant.
